Consumers' company, and vice president of the Ferry Pipe company, 1818 West
Midway park, Austin.

The burglar escaped.

MISTAKE, POLICEMAN SAYS.

Detective Sergeant James Garrey, who fired the bullet which went through Miller's heart and then beat the young man to the head with the butt of his gun, declared he thought Miller was the burglar and was about to draw a gun
on him.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgerton, with their daughter and Mr. Miller, who resided at 20 Latitude avenue, were playing cards
on the front porch when at about 11 o'clock Mr. Edgerton decided to draw a gun
on him.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgerton, with their daughter and Mr. Miller, who resided at 20 Latitude avenue, were playing cards
on the front porch when at about 11 o'clock Mr. Edgerton decided to draw a gun
on him.

As he was returning he noticed a light in his wife's bedroom on the second floor at the southwest corner of the house facing Mead Avenue. When he entered the front door he noticed that the light from the light streaming through the bedroom door into the upper hall substantially went out.

FINDS BURGLAR IN ROOM.

Knowing that all the members of the household were on the porch, he went upstairs to investigate, and on reaching the door of his wife's bedroom found the door shut. He did not enter the room, fearing the burglar might be armed, but hurried downstairs.

"Where's your jewelry?" he asked Mrs.
Edgerton.

She told him she had left it on her dressing table.

"Well, I think we'd better call the police," she said. "I believe there's a burglar upstairs."

McGANN JOINS CHASE.

He hurried towards the back door while Mr. Edgerton said he'd watch the door. Miss Edgerton called to Lawrence
L. McGann Jr., son of the former commissioner of public works, who was passing on his way to his home at 5719 Midway Ave., but returned to stand guard with the commission merchant at the front while Miss Edgerton was calling up the police.

The Austin station is only a block and a half away, and Lieut. Morris H. Elliott and the policeman rushed around the side of the house. In front of a small house at the rear they saw two men running.

SHOOTING VICTIM OVER HEAD.

"I shot him! I got him!" they heard Garrey shout.

As they ran up they saw Garrey strike Miller over the head. As Mc-Gann was about to grab Miller, thinking he was the burglar, the wounded man fell to the ground.

Then Mr. Edgerton got a glimpse of Miller's face as McGann turned his lightning on him.

"You've got nobody!" exclaimed Edgerton. "That's a friend! You're the burglar!"

Turning to McGann, he ordered him to arrest the policemen.

EDGERTON'S STATEMENT.

"Don't let that man get away!"
shouted Miller, pointing weakly at Garrey. Miller then lapsed into unconsciousness.

Garrey then pulled back his coat and exposed his star to Mr. Edgerton.

Miller was carried into the Edgerton home until the ambulance arrived from the station. He was then rushed to the Suburban hospital, but was dead

British officers are still satisfied that the gains have been bought at a fair price.
EFFECT ATTACK IN NORTH.
Dutch reports indicate that the Germans are nervous at the northern end of the line and are driving the civil population in and around Lille far to the rear. Evidence of French offensive is expected in that sector.

WITNESS TELLS OF ATTACK.
BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE, July 14.—Even the phlegmatic British generals and staff officers are showing elation over the results of today's attack.

As a spectacle to an eye witness, this action surpassed that of July 1. Taking needed ground for organizing new trenches and throwing out small parties, who dug themselves in, the British army has been gradually gaining a position from Ovillers, La Busselle, and Montauban, a distance of four miles, from which to deliver the blow. At present they were within 200 yards of the German second line. Meanwhile the shells of the British artillery could be seen cutting the wire entanglements and smashing the German trenches.

"Tomorrow morning at 3 a.m. came the laconic word yesterday evening, 'preceeded by the usual intensive preliminary bombardment, only a little hotter.'

GREATEST CONCET OF GUNS.
The ground gained by the British on July 1 and in subsequent operations gave the observer a viewpoint from which the whole line of attack could be seen. The faint moonlight enabled the gunners dimly to see their work, the infantry and the contour of the ground. "This is a real daylight saving show," said one of the gunners.

Seemingly, as the observer pushed close to the German line, there was the greatest concentration of guns of all calibers and types. At present, when they were within 200 yards of the German second line. Meanwhile the shells of the British artillery could be seen cutting the wire entanglements and smashing the German trenches.

SMOKE CLOUDS GO AHEAD.
While the smoke clouds from the British lines were carried by favorable winds and the shells made other points of the line indistinct, the ridge of Longueval, where the British burrowed forward against commanding position, and a stubborn, curtain-like line of fortifications, was seen distinctly to be in their possession.

More lines of troops were moving through the German curtains of shelter to the support of those who had gained the hotly contested summit, and now were looking down hill where the German guns are hidden and with the Bapaume ridge in the distance.

BERLIN STILL CONFIDENT.
BERLIN, July 14.—By wireless to Sayville—The offensive of the entente allies on the western front has not caused the withdrawal by the Germans of a single man or a single gun from the Verdun front, where the attack on the French fortress is being consistently and successfully pressed, says a statement issued today by the Overseas News agency, summing up newspaper comments on the western front campaign.

"The German success reported yesterday to have been won on the right bank of the Meuse, near Fort Souville and Laufeu plateau, is commented upon by the German newspapers as an event of remarkable importance," says the news agency summary. "This, the first enterprise attempted at Verdun since the beginning of the war, effected, incidentally, that the head of the German army, despite all hostile attacks on both the eastern and western fronts, has not lost sight of the original object in view.

"No German soldier and no German can have been withdrawn from Verdun, and the battle is continuing successfully, with the initiative in German hands."

GREEK KING ESCAPES FIRE WHICH DESTROYS PALACE.

Pavilion of Queen Mother and Residence of Crown Prince Also Burn in Forest Blaze.

PARIS, July 14.—A wireless dispatch from Athens today describes the destruction of the summer palace of King Constantine and the burning of the forest of Tatoi, in which the palace stood. The king, says the dispatch, escaped in an automobile from a dangerous position where he was directing the foresters endeavoring to extinguish the fire which had started in the woods.

Many persons were caught by the flames and perished, among them several army officers. The forest, which was the largest in Greece, was entirely burned over, the total loss from the flames exceeding 40,000,000 francs.

It is suspected that the fire started from the carelessness of wandering vagabonds in throwing cigarette stubs into dry brush wood, the countryside being dried out by lack of rain and intense heat.

The pavilion of Queen Mother Olga and the palace of the crown prince were destroyed, and also it is feared, the tomb of King George. King Constantine showed at the sight of the devastation worked by the flames.

NEW YORK ARSENAL BLAZE KILLS ONE; LOSS $500,000.

Vast Amount of National Guard Equipment Burned—Ammunition in Flames' Path Flooded.

New York, July 14.—One man was killed and several others were overcome by smoke in a fire which swept the New York arsenal at Seventh avenue and Thirty-first street late today. Large quantities of military equipment for the national guard were destroyed. The loss was estimated at $500,000, with no insurance. The cause of the fire has not been determined. A half million rounds of small arms ammunition, 300 rounds of shrapnel, and 100 rounds of shells were in the magazine, which was flooded just before the flames reached it.

BRITISH VICTORY NORTH OF SOMME

PARIS GAY CITY ON CELEBRATION OF BASTILLE DAY

Forgets Its Mourning as Thousands of the Troops Pass in Parade.

BY CAROLYN WILSON.

(Special Cable to The Tribune.)

PARIS, July 14.—Paris is resounding to martial music for the first time since the war began, for today is the 127th anniversary of the taking of the Bastille—an anniversary which symbolizes as much to every Frenchman as our own Independence day does to us. In 1789 the ancestors of these war tried men who marched today through Paris streets died fighting for "Les Droits de l'Homme" (rights of mankind). And because every French heart knows this is the watchword of the present war, 1,500,000 of sorrowing Parisians put aside their grief and with cheers and glad cries spurred their army on with encouragement. Beside mourning weeps on the statue of Alsace were bright flowers of victory, and on every widow's breast were the colors of France. A little bunch of flowers which she threw to the soldiers as column after column of Belgian, Russian, English, Scotch, and Moroccan troops swung by.

Crowd Wild with Enthusiasm.

The procession took forty-five minutes to pass, clipping by at double quick military march. The Russians were magnificent—picked men, not one under 6 feet—marching in close formation, thirty men across, breaking into odd, stirring, choppy bits of song as they marched.

There were Senegales and a battalion from Indo-China of dusky yellow men, who, in their khaki and turbans, were like a tribe of savages. There were East Indians and cocky Moroccans, whom French love almost best of all, splendid cavalry and several companies of dispatch riders.

All Kinds of Noise.

WILSON ENDORSES IDEA OF U. S.-MEXICAN BOARD.

Scope of the Commissioners' Power to Be Limited in Settling the Border Controversy.

Washington, D. C., July 14.—[Special.]—After the cabinet meeting today it was learned that President Wilson had endorsed the idea of submitting the Mexican border controversy to the arbitration of commissioners appointed on each side.

The president's action, however, according to administration officials, is conditioned upon an advance agreement between the two governments as to the scope of the commissioners' power and other details which have been discussed informally by Acting Secretary of State Polk and Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican ambassador designate.

Indications were that Mr. Polk and Mr. Arredondo had practically agreed as to the essential points of those advance negotiations.

OFFICIAL REPORTS ON WEST FRONT

BRITISH

London, July 14.—The official report issued by the war office tonight, summing up the results of today's drive by the British, said:

It is now possible to give further details of the British drive at daybreak this morning. Having driven the enemy back step by step to his second and system of defense, the period from July 11 to July 12 was mainly spent by our troops in bombarding formidable enemy positions and in making other necessary preparations for further advance.

This morning the assault was launched at 3:25 o'clock. The enemy was driven from his trenches on the whole front of attack, and many prisoners fell into our hands.

French patrols continued all day, and as a result of which we have steadily increased our gains, and now are in possession of the enemy's second position from Bazein-le-Petit to Longueval, both villages inclusive, and the whole of the Trones wood.

In the Trones wood we released a party of the Royal West Kent regiment, who, separated from their own troops in the recent fighting and surrounded by Germans, had held out in the northern end of the wood for forty-eight hours.

Two counter attacks on our new positions were completely crushed by our fire. Later in the day, after a fierce counter attack, the Germans succeeded in recapturing the village of Bazein-le-Petit, but were at once driven out again by our infantry. The whole village is once more in our hands.

GERMAN

BRITISH

London, July 14.—The official report issued by the war office tonight, summing up the results of today's drive by the British, said:

It is now possible to give further details of the British drive at daybreak this morning. Having driven the enemy back step by step to his second and system of defense, the period from July 11 to July 12 was mainly spent by our troops in bombarding formidable enemy positions and in making other necessary preparations for further advance.

This morning the assault was launched at 3:25 o'clock. The enemy was driven from his trenches on the whole front of attack, and many prisoners fell into our hands.

French patrols continued all day, and as a result of which we have steadily increased our gains, and now are in possession of the enemy's second position from Bazein-le-Petit to Longueval, both villages inclusive, and the whole of the Trones wood.

In the Trones wood we released a party of the Royal West Kent regiment, who, separated from their own troops in the recent fighting and surrounded by Germans, had held out in the northern end of the wood for forty-eight hours.

GUARDS NOT IN FEDERAL ARMY, BAKER OPINION

Says Militia Is Beyond Scope of Hay-Chamberlain Act Despite Oath.

(By A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., July 14.—[Special.]—With thousands of national guardsmen already on or near the border doing patrol duty and additional thousands ordered to the border, it was disclosed today that the men who have taken the oath did not enter the federal army thereby, are not subject to the provisions of the new Hay-Chamberlain defense act, and are still controlled only by the terms of their enlistment in the guard as a state organization.

An opinion to this effect has been handed to President Wilson by Secretary of War Baker, based upon investigation of the national guard situation by Gen. H. C. Crowley, the judge advocate general of the army.

The judge advocate general's opinion served to complicate further the already much muddled mobilization of the national guard.

One Way to Solve Problem.

The first step which should be taken to straighten out conditions on the border and in the mobilization campaign, so that there would be no question between state and federal control, according to Gen. Crowley, is for the president to draft the guardsmen into the federal service, in accordance with the terms of the Hay-Chamberlain draft resolution which became effective on July 1.

Although President Wilson urged congress to pass a resolution empowering him to draft the national guard into the federal service for a period of three years and congress yielded to his wish, he has not yet made the draft. According to officials in the administration the president has decided not to make such a draft now.

Draft May Be Necessary.

There is a possibility that conditions in Mexico may change, necessitating the draft, in order that the army may be sent across the line to resist possible invasion or to meet the enemy. Also there is a strong probability that the failure of the president to make the draft may result in earlier relief for the guardsmen who are now being forced to do training camp work in a tropical region.

It was said today that criticism of the methods of mobilizing the national guard is increasing and that the president may see fit to yield to it by ordering the guard back home. It is recalled that he already has yielded in part by issuing his order that married men with dependents may be released from service as they may return to their positions and their families.

Orth Not Binding to Army.

In his opinion on the status of national guardsmen Gen. Crowley said:

"The national defense act provides for the reorganization of the organized militia of the states into the national guard, which, upon the completion of such reorganization, will constitute the only force to be recognized by the said act."

According to the orth the president, the guard in becoming bound for three years' active service in the national guard, counting from the date of his original enlistment, and three years in the reserve.

"His present status is that of a member of the national guard who has been called into the service as a part of the organized militia to meet the exigency for which the call is issued. He is not, therefore, in the regular army, but is serving under the call into the service of the national guard to meet the emergency for which the call was made.

No Draft Under Late Resolution.

"No draft has yet been made under the resolution of July 1, 1916, which authorizes the president to draft into the military service of the United States under provisions of section 111 of the national defense act, approved June 3, 1916, any and all members of the organized militia of the states or the organized militia of the several states to serve for the period of the emergency, not exceeding three years unless sooner discharged."

"The resolution provides that all persons so drafted shall 'from the date of their draft stand discharged from the militia during the period of their service under said draft'."

Double Control Over Guard.

Judge Crowley's opinion, while clearing up the personal status of guardsmen, has not cleared up the general situation in the least, according to some of the members of congress. It has emphasized the fact that there is a double control over the guard.

In the first place, it was pointed out, the opinion raises an important question as to the legality of the acts of army medical officers in examining and rejecting members of the state guard before permitting the organizations to proceed to the border.

It is said that Senator O'Gorman and other New York politicians are using the present status of the guard to argue the argument with the president in favor of the restoration to their positions of a colonel and a Lieutenant colonel in the New York national guard. They were rejected because of physical disability by Gen. Wood this week.

Enlistment Misled Troops?

Unquestionably the judge advocate general's opinion will be welcomed by the national guardsmen now on the Mexican border, who will see in it an opportunity for an early getaway. Many of them enlisted in the belief that there was a great national danger. They went to the border expecting war.

After they had taken their oaths to fight for the country and to go anywhere they might be ordered, they learned that the real purpose for which they were sent to the border was to increase the border patrol, for which the regular army was not adequate by reason of the administration's refusal to support a program increasing it to the point of adequacy.

At first the men took the matter good naturally, said the trouble would blow over, and they would have the advantage of a few weeks' actual training in camp. Now that they are being forced to do the camp work under tropical conditions they find it is anything but pleasant. In fact, reports reaching Washington indicate

FIRST CAVALRY CAMP SLIPPERY WITH RIVER MUD

Officers Appeal for Healthier Site, but None Is Obtained.

Brownsville, Tex., July 14.—[Special.]—Imbued with the desire to spare his men further hardships of the variety they have been undergoing, Col. Milton J. Foreman went to the headquarters of the brigade commander today and tried to have the camp of the First Illinois cavalry removed from its present mud box in the desert west of here to some point where the health and general conditions of the cavalryman would be better safeguarded by natural conditions.

Although not given out officially, the fact and purpose of Col. Foreman's visit to brigade headquarters became known. It was stated further that the reply to his request was that change of camp could not be made. Although the officers in charge of the brigade were ready and willing to do all in their power for the safety and comfort of the Illinois and other state soldiers, no better spot for a camp could be found for them in the Brownsville district, it was argued by the commanding officers.

Visit of Gen. Parker.

A few hours after the colonel's visit Gen. James Parker, commanding all the troops in the district, made a trip of inspection through the camp. After tramping the mud of the troop street and noting the general condition of the camp brought about by the heavy rains, Gen. Parker ordered that every tent be given a wooden flooring, a measure that would have been taken by the cavalry officers days ago had the government issued the lumber for the purpose. He also directed that semi-permanent wooden kennels and trough mess halls be constructed.

"What do you think of the muddy condition of the streets?" Gen. Parker was asked following the inspection.

"It is a little worse than I expected it would be," was the reply. "On account of the peculiar qualities and stickiness of the mud in this part of Texas I shall recommend that the construction be installed as soon as possible."

Geography of Camp Parker.

Camp Parker is located in the midst of a flat cañon stubbed half desert, half a mile from the Rio Grande and three miles west of Brownsville. It is infested by tarantulas, scorpions, and other venomous insects. When the sun is shining upon it, it is fairly sweltering and when it rains the ground becomes a mass of sticky mud.

The entire country for many miles around is practically the same, all of it a portion of delta of the Rio Grande. Ten years ago it was considered so unsanitary a habitation for white men that Fort Brown, the army post at Brownsville, was abandoned for a considerable time.

During the present week there have been heavy rains, and what little drilling has been done has been accomplished mainly between downpours and with the men tramping shore deep through the mud.

Officers Pleased with Men.

The officers returned to camp late in the afternoon to report the full details. They said with their field glasses they could just detect movement in the underbrush, but the clothes of the snipers were so nearly the color of the vegetation it was almost impossible to make out the number of men or the nature of their arms.

"Every one of those bullets was fired with a high powered rifle," said Lieut. Harry A. Gano of Company I, who was officer of the guard. "The bullets kicked up the dust all around us. Once as many as fifteen bullets landed within a dozen yards of our men in a few minutes."

Gen. Bliss in Camp.

If the visit of Gen. Parker. H. Bliss means nothing else, it decidedly pins down the tents of Camp Wilson for a good many months, according to officers at headquarters. The camp is gaining a look of permanence, however, and the tents are two railroad spurs costing $300,000 and the nuclei of three regular regiments are encamped here to attract enlistments from the militia.

Gen. Trevino announced that reports from all other points in his district, including Tampico, indicate quiet. He discussed also the possibility of assigning some of the large forces of the troops at his command to garrisons in the mining centers of the state, that the mining and smelting industries may shortly resume as possible to militiamen.

ELECT LEE OCHS PRESIDENT OF FILM EXHIBITORS

Movie Men Also Form National Union of All Picture Interests.

BY KITTY KELLY.
Things actually happened yesterday at the session of motion picture exhibitors their sixth national convention meeting at the Hotel Sherman. They elected their officers for the following year, conferring the considerations upon the following: Lee Ochs of New York, president; Judge A. P. Tugwell of California, vice president; E. J. Eisenberg of Mississippi, second vice president; William J. Sweeny of Illinois, secretary; and Peter J. Jeup of Michigan, treasurer.

Union Is Accomplished.

Two events of the morning were soul stirring, motion picture speaking.

The union of all picture interests, according to the plan outlined the day before by W. W. Irwin, general manager of V. L. S. E., into an organization called the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, was adopted unanimously by the exhibitors' branch.

Clinching the stand, the present convention elected its board of ten directors, which is counted by all picture people as a most advantageous step, by the precedent simplifying greatly the remaining organization of the other branches of the industry, the producers, manufacturers of equipment, distributors, and miscellanea.

In this representative body the exhibitor organization has ten directors, while the other divisions each has five. The ten directors from the exhibitors' league are: Thomas A. Furniss of Minnesota, A. P. Tugwell of California, F. J. Rembusch of Indiana, Sam H. Trager of New York, L. F. Blumenthal of New York, Charles Phillips of Wisconsin, Peter J. Jeup of Michigan, L. L. Levine of New York, M. A. Choyński of Illinois, and F. J. Hertington of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Brady Warns.

The other event was a bit of rapid fire legislation put over suddenly in Washington on Thursday and a telegram concerning it from William A. Brady. The legislation was a bill for the levying of a tax of one-half of 1 per cent of the gross receipts of every motion picture house in the United States, which was passed hurriedly through the house of representatives.

William A. Brady, president of the World Film company, shot a telegram of protest to the convention which read in part:

Miss Pauline Frederick and Her Mother

Miss Alice Brady

MARY PICKFORD DAY

Mary Pickford will begin her Chicago day with the arrival of the Century at 9:45.

From the station she will go to the Blackstone hotel.

In the forenoon she will address the convention at the Hotel Sherman.

This afternoon, at 2:30, she will go to the Coliseum.

In the evening, at 8 o'clock, she will go to Orchestra hall and appear on the stage, then back to the exposition at 8:30.

From there she will go to the University of Chicago settlement dance at Bartlett gymnasium.

Tomorrow she will leave for New York.

things have been said about Metro, which has made the local officials gnash their teeth and declare plaintively that they had never claimed there would be Metro stars present, that they always felt it would be doubtful and they were innocent bystanders hurt in the mêlée.

Too Much Romeoing.

Ralph Prior, local manager, said yesterday that Francis X. Bushman had three weeks to go before he would be home again, and that he had worked all night, the night before (which surely must have put him in a lavender funk) and that the Drews were so busy with their one reel comedies they couldn't get away, though there had been desperate last minute wiring for them, and that everybody else was all tied up with work and that altogether they felt worse about it than did anybody else.

Miss Brady Helps Out.

Alice Brady helped out things in the afternoon and in the evening Pauline Frederick dropped in, while Rose Tapley stuck to her Vitagraph post all the session, and Easanayers, Nell Craig, Bryant Washburn, Harry Dunkinson, and others provided real realisms for enthusiastic fans.

Today is Mary Pickford day, when the town holds its breath to see the reality of the blithe presence which has given so much film delight.

They Called It "Metro Day."

At the Coliseum all day long was put on a smashing exhibition of Hamlet without Hamlet, meaning it was Metro day without any Metros. Aent that has been much gnashing of teeth. Editors gnashed them because they had announced the presence of such lights of popularity as Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, and the good faith of giving a smashup of their coming by the well-qualified publicity department that has been supposed to spread information in regard to the exposition, for there is nothing that wrecks the spirit so much as trustfully printing something that hasn't a grain of truth in it.

The worms naturally turned, and cold

'TWAS "METRO DAY" AT THE MOVIE SHOW

And These World and Paramount Stars Were the Headliners.

NO ROMANCE IN FILMLAND, SAYS ALICE BRADY

World Star Sees No Glamour
About Work in Movie Studios.

They came yesterday morning, two bright and shining celluloid stars, Pauline Frederick and Alice Brady, shining in competitive constellations, by the way, and they twinkled around town a bit in anticipation of their coming days.

Miss Brady, in a dark silk frock with a droopy hat, was launched at the Blackstone by Harry Reichenbach with the people of Photoplay magazine, Julian Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. James R. Quirk.

She had a light hearted attitude toward the world cinemac and a vague notion of what all she was destined to do during her stay here.

"Whatever they tell me to do," she laughed. "I've learned to mind, and I find it is the easiest way to get along."

No Glamour to Stay.

"There's no romance or glamour about screen work," she confided. "You come into the studio at 9 o'clock and say, 'Sit on that chair and weep,' and you do. It's good training for control of the emotions. I think it would be a fine thing for people suffering from hysteria. They would find it a good place to go to."

"They had a lot of fun with me when we were making 'La Vie de Boheme' because I'm so healthy looking to be dying."

Mr. Reichenbach here said I had 'plump consumption' and the poor nuns who had to carry me off the scene once were nearly bare. I was so healthy, he said.

"The Famous Players presented me with a lot of fun to keep me busy every once in a while, we get complaints from exhibitors saying our stuff is too much milk and water. So then we go through the stories we have laid aside as not being quite right and pick out something. Then we make it, but we don't put in punch to make it strong enough, and yet it's too strong to be nice, and then the censors cut it and the reviewers knock it."

Moroso to Stay.

"We want to make good pictures, and we all think that the company that is doing as good or better pictures than we do is coming in and release through Paramount. Moroso is going to do with us as long as they make good pictures. Awhile ago when the separation was talked of they had been having a run of bad 'r'ch, such as comes to everybody, but now they are doing good work."

"The Paramount-Triangle merger was a big thing that it tied in the process of being formed. There were too many angles to it, too many minds to be considered. But it would have been a wonderful thing if it had been a success. The old would have had the best productions of the day in one organization. O it isn't impossible yet. It may happen some time."

Introducing Miss Frederick.

Pauline Frederick was caught in the act of being introduced to the Paramount convention of district managers and publicity men assembled at the Blackstone from all over the country. While Adolph Zukor presented her, in the process calling her the sweetest spirit in Famous Players, and different representatives from the short grass country and the high topped regions paid tribute to her increasing popularity in their districts, Miss Frederick hid her face behind her cherry hat and gazed intently on the tracings of her tan shoe tip on the carpet.

Mr. Zukor here had arranged and just been completed whereby she was to continue with Famous Players-Lasky, adding that Mrs. Frederick had charge of her daughter's business affairs. And Mrs. Frederick, all in white with a pink hat and pink neck ruche, beamed at said daughter. Whereat the Paramounters insisted she say something.

Miss Frederick lifted the cherry hat curtain, flashed a radiant smile, and remarked: "I'm only doing what my mother taught me when I was a little girl, being seen and not heard."

Loves Chicago, of Course!

Miss Frederick is a little, active person. She makes sweeping gestures in conversation and she radiates energy. Though she isn't a large person, when she tucks one under her arm it feels rather like being tucked by a very firm handed tornado.

She loves Chicago, of course, though she hasn't been here for a very long time, she says. She is the sort of bracing person who looks as if she were busy extracting a good time from life.

At the convention today Miss Frederick will be one of the Paramount attractions, along with Mary Pickford.

'ROUND ABOUT THE STARS

BY BOB LEE.

It is fair to assume, as you will after you have read it, that this portion of the proceedings in the convention of movie magnates was not jotted down by the recording secretary:

The convention was plodding along in total disregard of Roberto Rudes of Order. The chairman was gaveling and divers magnates were speaking on divers subjects.

A keen and active member was strutting for recognition. He got none. He waved his hand. The result was disappointing.

"Mr. Chairman!" he shouted. The chairman heeded him not. The member persisted freely and waved his arms some more.

"Mister Chairman!" he yelled again. The chairman calmly recognized some one else.

"Mister CHAIRnah!" came the frantic. And he was recognized.

"Why ain't there no spitoons in this place?" he demanded and with an air of having struck a keynote he glowered over the convention.

There is a salivator on the job now.

Lewis J. Selznick, president of the Clara Kimball Young Film corporation, appointed Lewis J. Selznick, general manager of the Clara Kimball Young Film corporation, as technical expert in charge of the Clara Kimball Young Film corporation exhibit yesterday. Mr. Aaron J. Jones and Mr. Harry Ascher assisted Mr. Lewis Selznick.

nick in his enterprise, and Mr. Ralph T. Kettering brought in a cooling drink at the request of Mr. Lewis J. Selznick for Miss Clara Kimball Young, it being the opinion of Mr. Lewis J. Selznick that Miss Clara Kimball Young might be cooled thereby. Mr. Lewis J. Selznick smiled in a manner of one whose job is very punk, one would guess not.

Alice Brady, daughter of William A. Brady, was a belle before she became too. She had a lot of trouble making her toilet because Chicago sneaked up on the train sooner than she expected.

"I didn't get a chance to put any powder on," she wailed. "But, good heavens! you can't powder a red, hot tomato, and that's the way my face feels."

And finally, here is a poem by Ralph T. Kettering. It is entitled "The Movie."

The Movie has superseded
The drama.
Because in pictures you
Don't use no grammar.
There's plenty of stars
In the business and they all Scintillate.
But if you ask me, give me
The stars in the box office.
They sin till late.

There will be stars a-plenty today, for tonight Edith Storey, Anita Stewart, Lillian Walker, and Harry Morey leave New York to-night for a hurried trip to the Chicago Show.

A wire from New York last night informed Edith Storey, Anita Stewart, Lillian Walker, and Harry Morey leave New York to-night for a hurried trip to the Chicago Show.

Mary Maurice, who has been invited by the exhibitors as a guest of honor at the exposition, will accompany the delegation if she is strong enough. Mrs. Maurice is 72 years old.

KILL THE PORK BILL.

The rivers and harbors pork barrel bill of the current session is now at its next but last stage. After emerging from the house committee it recommended an expenditure of thirty-nine and a half millions. In the senate nearly five millions more were added, but the bill passed by a margin of only three votes. In conference the total was cut to $42,886,083 and the house passed it on Tuesday, but by a vote which showed a net gain of twenty-three votes against the bill as compared to the number opposed to the original bill.

The test, THE TRIBUNE is glad to see, showed a gain in the opposition to this shameful evil among middle western representatives. Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, and Wisconsin gave only fourteen votes, and one paired, in favor of the report out of their total of eighty-three. Here is the list of pork barrel supporters in these states:

ILLINOIS.
Rainey ..... Dem Davis ..... Rep.
Rodenberg ..... Rep. Van Dyke ..... Rep.
Denison ..... Rep. Smith ..... Rep.
Lieber ..... Dem Voldstad ..... Rep.
Dixon ..... Dem Schall ..... Rep.
Wood ..... Rep. WISCONSIN.
Not one. ..... Rep.
MICHIGAN.
(Favored for.) ..... Rep.
McLaughlin ..... Rep.

The fate of the bill is now in the hands of the senate and, considering that the first vote gave a margin of only three votes, there is some hope that it can be defeated if it is exposed to a vigorous assault by the enemies of pork in the upper chamber.

A change of two votes would beat the measure and one of these votes ought to be that of James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois. Certainly there should be a record vote so that every man in the senate will have to carry his own share of responsibility for this huge loot.

Congress is creating new taxation and raising as additional revenue nearly two hundred millions. The pork barrel graft should be cut out with a firm hand. Rivers and harbors improvement should be drastically reformed so that it will be for the improvement of rivers and harbors and not of the bank accounts of private interests. The present bill for $43,000,000 should be defeated and an emergency appropriation passed to care for necessary current work pending the investigation and recommendation of a commission such as is proposed in the Fress bill.

The people of the United States realize that they will have to pay for past neglect of the army and navy, and they will not begrudge honest expenditure on national defense. But senators will do well to realize that the waste of the pork barrel will be resented more than ever it has been before, not only because the public knows more about this evil in the past but also because, in the face of necessary additional national expenditure, waste on indefensible public works appears more brazen and inexcusable.

LABOR GRAFTERS.

The conviction of the business agents and labor men responsible for corrupt dealings, terrorism and brigandage in Chicago is another bit of progress in the slow work of reducing our own species of Mexican disorder.

The wage earner gains nothing from the dishonest and violent operations of these men. What they are doing is not a part of the effort of labor to improve its condition. They are working for themselves at the expense of labor.

The extortion and violence of which they are the cause fills their own pockets. It does not give a penny to the men who give them power. Unionism may not understand them, may be deceived by them, or may be unable to get rid of them, but certainly is injured by them.

They would sell out the unions as quickly as they would sell out anything else. Unlucky men of any experience know that at times they have been sold out by corrupt agents in strikes which they entered in good faith for a cause they thought just.

THE MEXICAN RECKONING COMING.

It is reported from Washington that a state department estimate reckons the amount of claims against Mexico will be about $1,000,000,000. As soon as responsibility can be located in a Mexican government the property owners who have suffered from the disorders will ask for recompence.

Some of the claims, to an amount not indicated in the estimate, will be referred by foreign corporations and individuals and they will be backed by their governments. One reason the United States has heard so little of foreign losses in Mexico is because the foreign governments are too busy with more important matters. They merely defer; they do not ignore.

When they have time, when their hands are free, they will ask for an accounting. The destruction of foreign investments in Mexico is sure to interest nations suffering from the great destruction in Europe.

Mexico is the ward of the United States. We may try to avoid that fact, but we cannot. The United States is responsible in foreign opinion for the conduct of Mexican affairs. If it is not responsible it may stand aside and the foreign governments will protect their people and their people's property. If the United States is responsible it must give the protection.

The United States will have a great deal of difficulty in maintaining the position that it is not obliged to bring Mexico to an orderly condition, but is obligated to keep any other nation from attempting to do so.

Some nation has a duty in Mexico. The various governments are willing to concede that it is our duty. We do not know how long they will continue to concede that it is no one's duty. The world is not run in that fashion. If Mexico were in Africa its affairs would have been taken over long ago. Mexico could not exist anywhere except in North America. We doubt that it could exist in South America. If Chile, Brazil, or Argentina had such a neighbor they would see that it found better ways of living.

The conjunction of the United States and Mexico is the only one of the kind that could be found anywhere. The United States could not conduct itself as Mexico does and continue to do so. If conditions of life here became what they are in Mexico the other nations of the world would put a stop to it.

If Canada were subjected to the sort of treatment the United States receives from Mexico there would be no tolerance of our conduct by Great Britain.

Mexico is exempt from the rules of the world and is exempt only because of the United States, which it chiefly suffers from Mexican acts.

EDUCATIONAL CONTROL.

At the present moment a courageous and, we believe, sincere attempt to correct vicious conditions is open to the danger of political abuse. The repeal of the merit clause, so-called, governing teachers' tenure of office was directed at evils existing, it is credibly charged, in the actual working of the system. The merit clause repealed, it is asserted, did not protect merit.

President Loeb's article in yesterday's TRIBUNE charges a condition of affairs which the community cannot afford to ignore.

It is, of course, not to be tolerated that teachers in public schools should complicate their work with the aims and problems of trade unionism. Individuals who are not willing to recognize in teaching a special public trust with special limitations are not fit to be teachers, and it is of utmost importance to the schools and the community that trade union politics and trade union tactics, however legitimate they may be in the effort of the wage earner to better his private fortune, should not be allowed to invade school affairs, dictate their conditions and make of the teaching body an instrument of industrial warfare.

So far as President Loeb's effort is directed at this danger he will have the hearty support of the great majority of the community. But Mr. Loeb undoubtedly realizes the defects of the measure he has compelled to adopt to meet what he feels, with much reason, is a critical situation calling for some immediate drastic check. We have no doubt he will welcome any sincere, unselfish, and practical effort to establish a real merit system which shall be proof against any dictation or subterranean influence, and which shall keep the teaching force strictly on the basis of teaching efficiency.

A committee of citizens has recommended the "immediate organization of a public education association to act as a constructive agency in carrying out the positive measures which would be substituted for the present negative action and disturbed conditions." If such an association were composed of citizens of present character and freedom from ulterior influences, there is reason to hope it could force out of school affairs in due time the influences now charged with their demoralization and also bring continuing support to a constructive program of educational progress. But there is decided danger that a large association would be subject to invasion by political or other influences interested not in the establishment of real school reforms but in such irrelevant interests as are represented by trade unionism. Even the small committee which has made the recommendations contains several members who can hardly be expected to deal with the present situation in an impartial way, and if we have to have a compact central body, like the M. V. L., which is most desirable, it must be as free as that body has been from bias and ulterior interest.

But given a compact committee of high character, competence, and disinterestedness, we think it could feel sure of the support of the more influential newspapers and of the intelligent classes of the city, just as the M. V. L. is sure of it because the M. V. L. has deserved it.

The committee also urges that the board reconsider its recent action, but as to this recommendation there well may be some hesitation. It is not clear that, pending the organization of the proposed critical body and the actual establishment of a merit system free from ulterior influences, it may not be safer to rest upon the now existing basis rather than the one which preceded it. The danger of President Loeb's new rule is of a gradual invasion of the teaching body by spoliopolitics, not any sudden inundation. Before serious results can ensue, we trust the new criticism will have established its superiority and a true merit system will have been set up. It is to be expected, the board may well refuse to retreat from its present position until it has been made clear that it has created a situation more hurtful to the schools than that which preceded it.

The action of the Aero Club of America in sending a cable to the American aviators now with the French army, asking them to come home and serve their own country, forcibly illustrates the utter inefficiency of our military authorities in delaying with this branch of the military service.

The air patrol is an essential factor in modern warfare. If the United States army had been properly equipped with these "military eyes," Gen. Pershing's men of the Tenth cavalry might have been warned of the trap set for them at Carrizal and it is certain that news of the result of that clash would not have been so long delayed.

Immediately after the raid at Columbus it developed that the army had but two aeroplanes on the border and now these have been entirely worn out. frantic appeals for additional planes failed to produce them. The Aero club at the time of the Columbus raid called the attention of the war department to the situation, but the secretary of war replied that the force to be sent into Mexico was sufficient. Lieut. Col. Reber, then head of the aviation corps, declared that the expedition would be in Mexico but a short time and that there was no need of additional aeroplanes. Since then Col. Reber has been dropped from his post as a result of an investigation of the aviation corps affairs. The attention of congress has been called to the deficiency in aviation equipment, but little has been done toward remedying the defect.

After three months the secretary of war is trying to find out how many aeroplanes are available and how soon they can be supplied. This "watchful waiting" policy, when applied to the aero service, is costing the American troops in Mexico very dearly.

Motto: How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE W. G. N. yesterday printed a picture of the jaws of the shark caught at Ocean City, N. J., and we are asked to name the variety. We should say it was a loan shark, as it resembles no other shark we have seen; or it may not be a shark at all, but a shark, which is a cross between an alligator and a jabberwock.

THERE are, and always have been, shoals of sharks in the waters about Manhattan. We used to catch them when fishing for blueshells in the lower bay. The bluefish line was strong enough to hold eight and ten-footers, and they were eased up to the catboat and dispatched with a long knife.

DEMON OF VIOLIN MAKES THIEF OF CITY TROUBADOUR

Son of First Argentine Family Steals an Instrument the Owner Won't Sell.

The attachment of a young Spaniard, heir to the wealth of a prominent family of the Argentine republic, to a costly violin prompted him to steal it when other methods to obtain the coveted treasure failed, and yesterday landed him in a cell in the Hyde Park station.

The young man, Victor Vitromill, 23 years old, son of one of the first families of Buenos Aires. The violin is the property of Edward E. Morgan, an exhibitor at the Art Institute and one of the foremost miniature painters in America, who also is a friend of Albert W. Brickwood Jr., consul in Chicago for Argentina, with whom he makes his home at 126 North Ashland avenue.

Love Tunes Unplayed.
Last night the strains of soft Argentine love tunes, played by a handsome, dark young man, were absent from the confectionery and ice cream store of J. McNally, 1125 East Sixty-third street, where for two nights since taking the instrument young Vitromill has been playing.

Young Vitromill came to Chicago two weeks ago with letters of recommendation from high Argentine officials. He speaks little English, and Mr. Brickwood, as consul, took him under his protecting wing. At the Brickwood home one evening he played love songs on the violin. After that his visits were more frequent, each time with the one idea of playing on the instrument. As his attachment grew he sought to purchase the violin from its owner, but Mr. Morgan refused to part with it. The violin was made by Edward Winters, famous in England and Europe as a maker of violins, and is valued at more than $200. Mr. Morgan purchased it and brought it back with him on a trip to London and prizes the instrument highly.

Temper Wins at Last.
Unable to obtain it by other means, Vitromill, according to Mr. Morgan, appeared at the Brickwood home, asked to play on the violin, as was his wont, and departed, taking the instrument and two specially designed bows with him.

He was arrested by the Hyde Park police on a warrant charging larceny, taken out by Mr. Morgan, as he was leaving one of the buildings of the University of Chicago, at Fifty-seventh and Ellis avenue. Recently he had been employed by the University Press and had gone there to collect wages due him. He was taken after a chase of several blocks. Later he admitted the theft and told the police where the violin could be found in the confectionery store.

WADOO TO HELP IN HUNT FOR SHARKS ALONG COAST.
Please to Use Guards in Effort to Capture Man Eaters—Body of One Victim Found.

Washington, D. C., July 14.—[Special.]—The attacks by sharks on bathers along the New Jersey coast received the serious attention of the President's official family today. Later Secretary Redfield announced that the coast guard would be ordered to cooperate in patrolling the coast of the dangerous fish and preventing further loss of life.

Instructions were sent by the treasury department to the coast guard cutters and life saving stations. No definite plan of action has been worked out, but the idea is to have the service aid in locating and killing sharks, and when possible warn resorts of their proximity. Secretary Redfield told the cabinet that the bureau of fisheries had been unable to give any scientific explanation of the unprecedented attacks upon human beings. A formal statement made public by Acting Commissioner Moore of the fisheries bureau said the breakwater vulnerability had been compelled to come to the conclusion that certain effective preventive measures could be recommended, but advised a shark catching campaign and warned bathers to stay in shallow water.

Body of Victim Found.
New York, July 14.—At almost low tide today the body of Lester Stillwell was found in Matawan creek about 200 feet from the spot where he disappeared after being attacked by a shark. The body had been bitten nearly in two above the waist line.

Kill 250 Pound Shark.
Atlantic Highlands, N. J., July 14.—A 250 pound shark, eight and one-half feet long, was captured and killed here today. The big fish was only killed after a struggle. The shark was of the blue nose variety with a white belly.

ICE WILL SAVE BABIES' LIVES

Charities Receive Reports Describing Needs in Tenement Families.

The following letter was received by the United Charities from one of the district superintendents:

"THE TRIBUNE free ice tickets were greatly appreciated by the M. family. Mr. M. has been suffering with tuberculosis and was sent on the 16th of last month to the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium for treatment. The recent ill health which has prevented Mr. M. from doing regular work has reduced the family to dependence. Mrs. M. is left at home with four little girls. The oldest child is but 12 years. Mrs. M. is an excellent mother and we are very anxious to keep the home together."

Boys Ask Ice for Sister.
This is only one of the scores of similar cases reported to the superintendent every day. Yesterday three boys came to the district office on the northwest side. "Won't you please send us some ice so our baby's milk can be kept cool?" one of them asked. "Papa got hurt in an accident and he can't work for a long time. The doctor said our little sister's milk must be kept cool, but mamma says she can't buy ice."

Investigation disclosed that the boys are three of four brothers. The family lives in a room below the street level. They have no stove and must burn coal. The mother bakes bread every day for the large family. The hot spell already has lasted long enough to entail suffering among the babies. One of every ten babies in the crowded tenement districts die during the month of August from a preventable cause.

Hospital Needs Money.
And don't forget that you'll be doing just as great, if not greater, service by sending a larger amount to the open air hospital fund, so some tired mother and baby may have two weeks in the great out of doors to gather new strength for the winter.

Through an error the cost of keeping one person at THE TRIBUNE open air hospital, fund, so some tired mother and baby may have two weeks in the great out of doors to gather new strength for the winter.

LOOKS LIKE A DERBY WINNER?

TWO FROM ONE STABLE

BY E. S. MERRILL.
The problem for thousands of those who go out to see today's American Derby at the Hawthorne racetrack will probably be getting a point from which they can see the race.

Indications point to a widespread interest in the attempt to renew racing, and the revival of the Derby itself, with its spectacular and sentimental features, will undoubtedly bring out for the opening the usual additional thrills of those who send go to the track at any other time.

Lowest Guess Is 20,000.

Estimates of probable attendance vary from 20,000 to 50,000, and probably will be closer to the conservative figure. But even a 30,000 crowd today will drive many thousands out into the big field to hunt for places where they can see the thoroughbreds in action, and pack other thousands upon the sloping brick "lawn" between the grandstand and track during the time the races are being run.

Track officials have striven, they say, to anticipate the demands that are sure to be made upon the parking space for automobiles, but it may be well for those driving to the track to guard against usual delays in this particular by an early start. The big infield will be utilized, but it is announced that cars going in there must cross the track by 1:15.

George Smith Doubtful Starter.

The first bad news about the Derby for track fans came yesterday in the development of serious soreness by George Smith, the favorite. It is almost certain the Kentucky Derby winner will not go in the past today, although he was announced in the official list of today's entries. This will leave only a four horse field. Dick Williams, the Schorrell, not having been sent to Chicago, and of this quartet two will be from the same stable.

To many persons this small field will militate against the attraction of the race, but it is not so with old timers, and those familiar with the difficulty of keeping track of the horses in a race. To the genuine lover of horse-racing two horses well matched are enough for a good race, especially with the betting feature eliminated.

Easy to Follow Field.

In fact, it would seem that the small field would have its attractions for the novice, because the latter ordinarily has only a confused notion of the identity of the contenders. Today, with but four in the Derby and two of them from the same stable, any one ought to be able to distinguish the horses at all parts of the race-to know, for example, that the bay colt, ridden by a jockey in white with red stars, is Dodge, the Kentucky Derby winner, and that the chestnut colt carrying precisely the same colors is Frank, Dodge's stablemate; also that the brown, with a white blaze on the withers, is the only remaining colt, another brown, will carry the brown and white colors of the Canadian sportsman, R. J. Mackenzie.

This quartet-or even but two of them, for that matter-might easily produce a contest more thrilling and more satisfactory to the lover of sport than would a field of a dozen where the winner would not be known until after the numbers were posted.

Favorite Very Sore.

George Smith's soreness resulted from his workout of last Tuesday, when he worked a mile in 1:56, slowing up so badly in the last quarter, which he made in 28 seconds, that it was evident he was wrong. The trainer, however, was wrong. Tuesday, and had not diminished yesterday. Trainer Hollis Hughes telephoned the facts to John Sanford, the owner, at Amsterdam, N. Y., and left the decision as to a Derby start to the latter.

Ten thousand dollars means nothing to Mr. Sanford, compared with the welfare of such a colt as this," said a stable attendant late yesterday afternoon, as he stood stroking the colt in the Sanford stall, "and it's my guess that he won't send the colt to the post. However, I do not know."

John Sanford last night wired Trainer Hughes to start George Smith in the Derby. The colt will be shipped east tomorrow night.

Other trainers at the track thought George Smith's soreness was not so severe that he could not run with safety. "If I had him," said one, "I would pack his ankles in ice tonight, give him a little warming up in the morning, and then send him to the post. However, I'm not worth five millions."

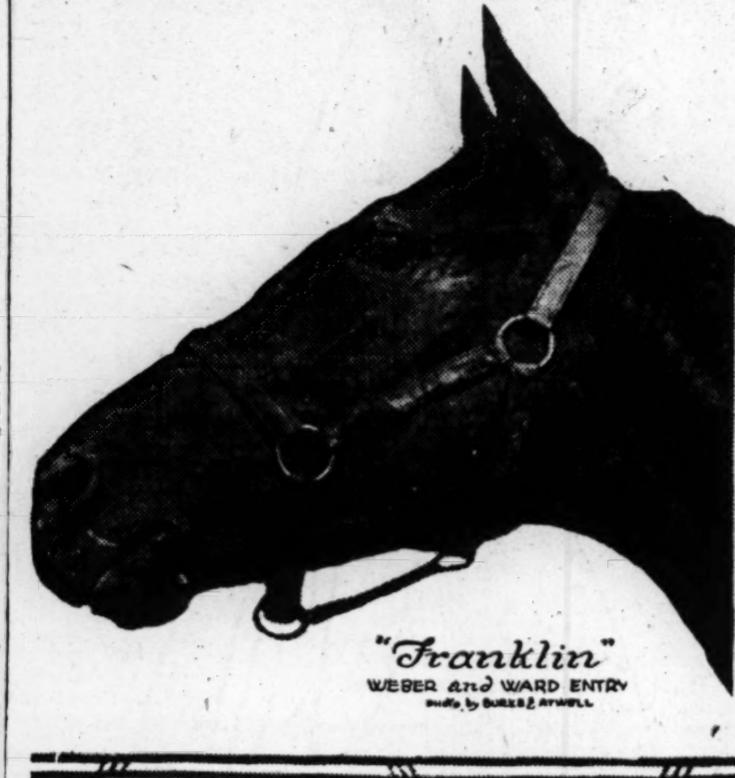

Talk of Ward's Luck.

Assuming that George Smith would not start, trainers at the track who had just arrived from Latonia were commenting on the luck of J. S. Ward, the half-owner of Dodge and Franklin.

At Latonia, said one of these trainers, we made the track so slow that, with his penultimate start, George Smith was able to beat Dodge, and now, coming up here and finding a fast track, the King George Smith won the Kentucky Derby upon "Smith" suddenly goes lame and leaves the race almost at the mercy of Dodge or Franklin. Lucky man, that Ward!

Canucks Like Faux Col.

Dodge and Franklin, however, are not mentioned the race by any means. Arms from the Canadian circuit consider that Faux Col, the winner of the Canadian Derby at Fort Erie, is a sure winner. He has worked out nicely since coming to Chicago and is believed to be in good condition for a good race. The distance at which he won at Fort Erie is a mile and a quarter, the same as the Derby

TODAY'S AMERICAN DERBY FIELD

Keene George Smith, blk. c., by Out of Reach-Consul II. 126 C. Fairbrother John Sanford

With Smith starting the probable odds would be: George Smith, 6 to 5; Weber &amp; Ward entry, 9 to 5; Faux-Col, 6 to 1; Churchill, 12 to 1. With a four horse field the probable odds will be: Entry, 3 to 5; Faux-Col, 5 to 2; Churchill, 4 to 1.

Patrons can reach track by taking Douglas park branch of Metropolitan "L" to end of line, and then getting street car direct to track.

Weather forecast—Fair; not much change in temperature.

AUTOMOBILE ROUTES TO HAWTHORNE TRACK

Automobiles wishing to reach Hawthorne by automobile are advised to drive west on Tafton boulevard to Ashland avenue, south west on Ogden avenue to Cicero avenue (Fifty-second avenue) and thence south one half mile into the course.

Motorists may also go straight out Twenty-second street to Fifty-second avenue.

today, but the uncertain feature about his ability to pick up an added nine pounds, he having carried only 101 at Fort Erie, whereas he will have to pick up 128 today.

You can never tell whether a horse will carry weight until he is put to a test. Eddie Mohr, a old time trainer yesterday, "He can't be trained to do it; it's just got to be born in him, like speed."

Little Dope on Keene Entry.

Churchill, the F. P. Keene entry, is also in excellent condition for the race, having been given a nice workout yesterday morning, and his record shows the race is largely a matter of class. It has been considered difficult in the past to compare eastern and western horses, so that Churchill's moderate showing on eastern tracks may be misleading.

Churchill and Franklin each get into today's Derby with an allowance of three pounds under their two Derby winning rivals.

Franklin is pronounced by horsemen coming from the southern circuit to be fully as good a racehorse as his more celebrated stable companion.

The Derby is the fourth race on the card, and will probably start about 4 o'clock, as the first race is called at 2:30.

Hotel Sherman Handicap Today.

The Hotel Sherman handicap is added feature for today's card, being a race before the Derby. It is for 3 year olds and a sixteenth, the distance being a mile and a sixteenth, and a field of five high class horses is announced to start.

Like the Derby, it will bring together racers from east and west and Canada.

Eddie Mohr, Milwaukee pugilist, is a hero among north side athletes. The blonde half welterweight drove fifty feet from the Humboldt avenue viaduct today and saved from drowning a youngster.

"Aida" at Ravinia; News of the Theaters

THE voices of the artists at Ravinia were raised Thursday night in the measures of the somewhat obsolete "Aida." It was the great pleasure of a populous audience to behold the abranging ministrations of the blue pencil, the performance lasted less than two hours—a period which permitted the presentation of the opening of the first act, the boudoir scene, and the Nile scene. A sufficient entourage of picture, costume, and chorus accompanied these episodes, and the splendid orchestra depicted itself admirably with Verdi's score, directed by Richard Hageman of the Metropolitan opera.

Mme. Berisa, assigned to the title role found herself at a late hour unfamiliar with its bistrolic traditions, and so she withdrew in favor of Miss Estelle Wentworth, her associate soprano. The substitution seemed a satisfactory one, since Miss Wentworth sang brilliantly, especially in the final solo and in the duet with M. Puccini as Amneris, and her acting combined much personal charm with the skill shown in such a character. Miss Jarman was a picture and sinister as Amneris; and Mr. Scott as Ramfis and Mr. Kingston as Radames evoked applause by their singing and impersonations.

Sunday evening Mme. Berisa will appear as Santuzza in "Cavalleria Rusticana" in place of Miss Wentworth. The opera tonight is "Martha," with Miss Mabel Garrison in the name part.

Since Galsworthy's "Justice" developed so rapidly into a drama, the managers and actors have begun prospecting in the desert places of the drama. William Faversham announces a production of Mr. Shaw's favorite discussion, "Getting Married," with himself, Hilda Spong, Henrietta Crosman in the cast, and he says he believes that the author will come to America for the first performance in October. John D. Williams, whose faith in "Justice" made him a fortune, plans to present Ibsen's "An Enemy of the People," a play hitherto a victim of amateur and art movements.

George B. Cortelyou Jr., a Harvard young man, has written a comedy which he calls "A Regular Girl." It will be produced in the fall by a new corporation, the Greyley Producing company.

Miss Nora Hayes and her queer clothing are to be retained for a second week at the Majestic. One of her associates on a prize of $200, a second choice prize of $100, will be given to the public choice of Miss Hayes.

A little 4 years old was proud of a new pair of shoes which she was wearing for the first time. She stepped daintily over the threshold, and after a while asked to have them taken off.

"Why do you want your new shoes off?" asked her mother.

"'Cause," said the little one, "I'm afraid I'll get 'em dirty."

Jack's mother has a friend whose complexion is somewhat the worse for freckles. One day she called, dressed critically in brown. Jack examined her critically for some time, and then called out admiringly: "My, but you fixed yourself up fine today. Everything matches, even the spots in your face!" E. C. R.

Earl, the youngest of the crowd, was sliding down the strawstack with his cousins. Finally he came crying to the house, and his mother asked, "What's the matter, son?" He replied: "We were sliding the strawstack and when we went up, one by one it was all right, but when we went up all by one I got hurt."

After he is withdrawn from "Justice," Mr. Barrymore will appear in Edward Sheldon's drama, "The Lonely Heart." Then O. P. Heggie, who was such a success as "Androcles," will take the leading part in Chesteron's "Magic," which Mr. Williams proposes to produce next year.

HUGHES COMING HERE ON AUG. 8; THENCE TO COAST

Mayor Sends Word to City Hall to Prepare to "Burn Up the Town" That Night.

The formal opening of the Republican national campaign in Illinois, with Charles Evans Hughes, the Republican standard bearer, delivering his own message, will take place in Chicago on the night of Aug. 8.

Mr. Hughes, on his first swing across the continent, will stop over in Detroit on the previous night, Aug. 7, to make his first stump speech on the coast to coast trip.

Word from Mayor.

Plans are already in the making for a monster demonstration in Chicago on the night of the 8th. Mayor Thompson, who wired the intelligence through from New York after a conference with National Chairman Wilson, also sent message to his city hall aids to get busy with plans to "burn up the town" on that night.

The native program calls for the meeting in the Coliseum, with all candidates for state nominations on the platform and all factions joining hands to give the Hughes campaign a big sendoff.

Mr. Hughes' general statement on the campaign issues will be made on July 31 at the notification meeting in New York. His Chicago speech, as discussed some days ago, is to be centered around the theme of Americanism. Those in his confidence in New York have said that the Chicago speech will be a brilliant oration on patriotism and "undiluted Americanism." He is not going to mince words or do any trimming, they have promised, but preach the real gospel, regardless of whether it helps or hurts in any section. He will also preach some social justice gospel, it is promised, that will measure up to the Progressive party ideals of statesmanship.

From Chicago Mr. Hughes will go to Minneapolis and St. Paul and thence through to the coast. The itinerary has not been completed further west than Minneapolis.

Factitious Leaders yesterday devoted their time to getting the petitions in shape for filing today, both at Springfield and in Chicago.

The Deneen-Hull forces had some trouble over their candidate for attorney-general. George H. Wilson of Quincy, the anti-saloon leader in the legislature, laid down hard on both Hull and Deneen, demanding that he be given the state place.

At the same time Walter Provin of Taylorville, one of the "Band of Hope" boys, who supported all dry legislation, served notice on both Hull and Deneen, he was going through to the end as a candidate for attorney general and whether he and his friends did anything for Hull

PRESIDENT WRITES HIS VIEWS ON PROGRESSIVES

Washington, D. C., July 14.—In reply to a letter from J. C. Parker, a Philadelphia magazine editor, asking if he would accept the leadership of progressives of all parties, President Wilson today wrote Mr. Parker that he had no jealousy of independent political organizations, but believed that the Democratic party represented a larger part of the progressive power and thought of the country than any other party. The letter follows:

"I have read your letter of July 10 with a great deal of attention and serious interest, and realize, as keenly as you do, the anomalous condition by which many of the progressive voters of the country are being confused and misled, as well as the old, inveterate attractions which seem to control the choice of many of them in matters political.

"In answer to the questions contained in your letter I will say that, for my part, I have no jealousy whatever of independent organizations intended to keep the independent voters of the country reminded of their obligations and fully informed as to parties and of the conditions under which their votes are being solicited.

"For myself I sincerely desire and have tried to deserve the support of all progressive, forward-looking men. I believe—and I think that recent experience has confirmed the belief—that the Democratic party represents a larger part of the progressive power and thought of the country than any other party, and that it can be made to represent a larger part if it is being made the instrument of leadership in the direction which all men who love Justice and progress must wish to take.

"It is for that reason that I am proud to be its nominee and to have the opportunity to lead it."

out in the state would depend on whether Hull and his friends were going to try to shut everybody else out by slating Wilson.

There was a disposition to leave this state open on the ticket, fearing a split in the dry forces by picking Wilson.

Mayor's Men Active.

The Thompson-Brundage people made considerable hay during the day by corraling Oscar Hebel in the Twenty-first ward and Assessor William H. Weber in the country towns districts. As the count stood at night, they had eighty-two of the forty-one county commissioners elected.

Hebel, who came into camp without reservation, will be stated for the Superior court vacancy, and Robert Crowe will go on for the Circuit court vacancy.

The Harrison leaders planned to put a full county slate in the field, with State's Attorney Hoyne at the top. As they did not feel that they could get first place positions in the county clerk's office, they will wait a few days before filing. Superior Court Clerk Richard McGrath, who was kicked out by the Sullivan caucus, and Assessor Frank Korsak, who also went out the window, are still in the race.

Talk of Raymond Robins making the fight for the nomination for governor in the Democratic primaries against Gov. Dunne was revived.

Mr. Robins said the talk was merely surface stuff and that he would not indicate his position until after Hughes makes his formal statement at the notification ceremonies.

SULLIVAN MEN AVOID A FIGHT AGAINST DUNNE

No Candidate Will Be Offered by Faction Before the September Primary.

BY E. O. PHILLIPS

Springfield, Ill., July 14.—[Special.] Gov. Dunne is to have no Democratic primary opposition so far as the Sullivan organization in Chicago is concerned.

This news was brought to Springfield by Democratic leaders who came to file primary petitions. It was received with satisfaction by those downstate Democrats who are opposed to a factional row at the September primaries.

There will be no organization opposition to Secretary of State Lewis G. Stevenson and the indications are that he will be renominated by acclamation. Lieut. Gov. Barratt O'Hara's candidacy for renomination was announced tonight. The Sullivan organization will support Anton J. Cermak against him. The Sullivan regulars have endorsed Attorney General Patrick J. Lucey and State Auditor James J. Brady for renomination, and Arthur W. Charles for state treasurer. Thus far no opponents have shown out at Springfield to their three.

Republican Situation Mixed.

The Republican situation is mixed. Frank O. Lowden's petition is ready with attachments to any other candidates, and so is Frank L. Smith's. Senator Morton D. Hull's will be here soon. It may or may not be accompanied by a full state slate.

Albert J. Wentzleff, secretary of the Republican county committee, came down with the petitions for the candidates who are recognized by the regular organization.

The only two state candidates in the list are Albert Erickson of the Twenty-sixth ward, secretary of state and Edward J. Brundage for attorney general.

The indications are that the final entries for state office will be between two or three candidates for each office on the Republican side and probably to a single candidate each in the Democratic camp.

Many in Legislative Race.

The legislative contest will be the most hotly contested in the political history of this state. The state hall will have a full slate in Cook county.

The weasels are on the ground with a complete slate. The Anti-Saloon league is here to see that it has enough candidates, and there are enough free lances to indicate that there will be nearly 600 primary candidates for the state.

Talk of Raymond Robins making the fight for the nomination for governor in the Democratic primaries against Gov. Dunne was revived.

Mr. Robins said the talk was merely surface stuff and that he would not indicate his position until after Hughes makes his formal statement at the notification ceremonies.

Ninth. He also has petitions for Ald. A. J. Fisher in the Third.

Wilson Has a Petition. Congressman William W. Wilson is here with his own petition. In the Fourth, the organization lies for former Ald. John Golombiewski. In the Fifth it is represented by David T. Almender and Sidney Wilson. In the Sixth, former Ald. A. W. Fetter, the organization lies for Frank Sullivan.

Wilson is filing an independent petition. William Lorimer's petition is expected and so is Ald. Carl T. Murray's. In the Seventh the organization lies for Carl C. Quale and Albert Miller. In the Eighth it is with Frank Sullivan.

Congressman James T. McDermott in the fourth ward district, will be opposed by Ald. Charles Martin of the Fifth ward, and Ald. Joseph F. Ryan's petition will be filed. In the Fifth district Congressman A. J. Sabath is to be unopposed by the regulars.

In the Sixth Congressman James McAndrews brought down his own petition. James C. Danis is ready to file against Mr. McAndrews. In the seventh Congressman Frank Buchanan is to be without organization opposition, and so is Congressman Thomas Gallagher in the Eighth.

CLARKE NAMED FOR BENCH POST

Wilson Nominates Ohio Judge to Succeed Hughes in Supreme Court.

ALL FOR CONFIRMATION

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., July 14.—[Special.]

President Wilson today nominated Judge John H. Clarke of the United States District court at Cleveland for associate justice of the Supreme court, to succeed Charles E. Hughes, who resigned to accept the Republican nomination for president.

Judge Clarke is a native Ohioan and has been prominent in affairs in his state for several years. He was born at Lisbon, O., Sept. 18, 1857; was graduated from the Western Reserve university in 1877 and admitted to the bar in 1878. Up to the time he was made a district judge by President Wilson in 1914 he had practiced law in Ohio and had also edited a newspaper at Youngstown. His newspaper, the Youngstown Vindicator, has long been one of the prominent Democratic organs in the state.

Beaten by the Late Mark Hanna.

In 1900 Judge Clarke was the Democratic nominee for United States senator, but was beaten by the late Mark Hanna, who was reelected.

When Clarke was nominated for district judge in 1914 he again made his opposition to the Nickel Plate railroad, and the anti-railroad group of senators challenged his right to a place on the bench. They dropped their opposition after a brief period. They do not expect to renew it now, and the president expects that the nomination will be confirmed in a few days. Senator Harding of Ohio announced tonight he would support Mr. Clarke and urge his Republican colleagues to give him a unanimous vote.

TECHNICAL SIDE IN STOCKS MAKES FOR A RECOVERY

Short Interest Large and Borrowing Heavily—Weak Accounts Are Cleaned Up.

Market conditions showed a turn for the better at the close yesterday, and, barring adverse events, prices should recover next week. The technical position is favorable to a recovery.

The short interest during the last week has been persistent and successful in a number of issues. A heavy borrowing demand is reported in New York, so that the short interest is estimated to be large.

At the same time commission houses report a great deal of cleaning up of weak accounts, a market condition which usually precedes an upturn.

Call money closed easier in New York, with renewals at 3½ per cent. This compared with a flurry of 6 per cent last week and with a constant decline this week from 5 per cent to the present rate mentioned.

The stock market, which have been under heavy pressure, have shown resistance in the last two days, and Industrial Alcohol, which on Thursday went to 70, closed yesterday around 165. The motor shares were in better tone and the market as a whole appeared to have undergone a degree of liquidation warranting improved prices.

Large Gain in Cash.

Known movements of money with the New York banks showed a reversal of the trend of last week, when a loss of around $60,000,000 cash was reported. This week the figures show the banks have gained about $37,000,000 cash. The higher interest rates earlier in the week caused a great remittance of funds and credit to New York.

The bonds issued from the interior $6,230,000. Gold imports were $12,000,000. The net debit balances of the federal reserve banks at the clearing house were around $20,000,000.

French Loan Being Allotted.

Allocations of underwriting in the $100,000 French collateral loan were sent out by J. P. Morgan & Co. and Brown Bros. & Co. The latter night. Those to whom underwriting was offered are requested to notify the bankers by Monday if they do not care to take the amount allotted to them.

Requests for increased allotments and for participation in the syndicate are being received by the bankers in large numbers, but nothing will be done in regard to them until Monday, when, if there is any allotted underwriting turned back, it will be available for division among applicants.

The public offering of 3 years 5 per cent collateral notes to be issued by the American Foreign Security company against collateral put up by the French government is expected to be offered next week at a price of 88 to yield approximately 5½ per cent. These three-year notes will be convertible at the option of the American Foreign Securities company at their maturity in blocks of $20,000,000 from French government twenty year 5 per cent bonds. The privilege of exercising this option will not rest with holders of the notes and they can avail themselves of it only if it is exercised by the company.

Illinois Surety Company. The first report of the financial condition of the Illinois Surety company since it was thrown into the hands of a receiver last April lists $660,228 as "good assets" and $323,712 as "poor and doubtful," with liabilities of $561,257.

It also lists in addition to cash in the office and depositories, accounts with two defunct Lorimer institutions totaling $60,000.

Spelter Production to Be Curtailed.

Curtailment of production is expected to follow the drop in spelter prices. With spelter nominally at $8 to a pound, the old smelters and those located in districts where high price gas prevails will be forced to close down. At present, all the plants have contracts for spelter sold at much higher prices and it is felt that material has been delivered will stand down necessary.

When spelter started on its rise to around 15 cents a pound, there were new smelters erected but obsolete plants shut down in many cases for fifteen and twenty years, were again placed in commission under the stimulus of high prices. As matters now stand, it is thought production has reached its maximum. Plans for enlargement, prepared under more promising conditions, in some cases have been abandoned.

Oil Production and Refining.

According to expert opinion, there has been at no time in the history of the oil industry such rapid expansion as has been recorded within the last few months. The progressive condition of the trade has called for large extensions to plants. As a result, the refining capacity of the country is larger than ever and production is kept at the high point.

It was because of the large increase in refining capacity, notably by the Standard Oil company, that the price of gasoline was forced to reach higher levels than those established a few months ago.

There has also been a large expansion of plant and production by the leading independent companies, especially Cosden and Sinclair. The refining capacity and production of the prominent companies compares as follows:

Daily refg. capacity in bbls. Daily production in bbls.

Standard Oil Co. of N. J. .... 100,000 40,000

Standard Oil of California: 100,000 40,000

Atlantic Refining Co. .... 70,000 30,000

Oil Corporation of America: 65,000 30,000

Winton Oil & Gas: 60,000 20,000

Standard Oil & Refining: 20,000 8,000

Copper Sales at 24 Cents.

Boston reports electrolytic copper sales in fair quantities at 24 a lb for October and November deliveries. American manufacturers, however, have been offering for resale a portion of their copper. The shares are showing a somewhat easier tendency in the last week. The market may have been influenced by the foreign war situation.

There was some trading in Peoples Gas, which held around 101. Union Carbide, Booth Fisheries preferred, and Sears-Roebuck common were steady.

Money Rates and Exchange.

Money rates in Chicago steady at 4½ per cent on collateral, 4½ per cent on commercial paper, and 4½ per cent

NEWS OF THE FINANCIAL WORLD

It is announced that four ships of the International Mercantile Marine, which have been under charter to the British government, have been returned to the service of the company. In the government service these ships yielded between $5,000 and $10,000 each month. Operated by the company they are expected to bring in around $60,000 net each month. May earnings of the company are expected to be close to the record which was made in April with a total of $5,725,000.

Iteration is made by a member of the executive committee of the Maxwell Motor company that gross business for the fiscal year to end July 31 will be almost double that of the previous year so far as volume of cars sold is concerned. Net earnings for the year after depreciation and reserves are estimated at around $5,000,000. This works out over 25 per cent on the common stock.

The entire rail capacity of the United States Steel corporation is reported sold up to the middle of 1917. It is predicted that within the next sixty days the rail capacity of the country will be sold up for 1917.

There was deposited at the New York assay office $3,000,000 gold received from Ottawa, making $165,946,000 sent to New York and Philadelphia in the present movement.

The Union Oil company of California reports net earnings for the first half of 1916 at $3,150,000, an increase of $1,800,000 over the corresponding period in 1915.
